Subject: MicroSoft Antitrust Settlement

To Whom It May Concern:

Although I support the right of each business to conduct themselves as they see fit within the law, the actions of Microsoft clearly violate US antitrust laws and the proposed settlement does nothing to dissuade them from their current behavior.

Rather than imposing a government sanction expansion of their monopoly, as guaranteed by the current proposed settlement, Microsoft should be broken up into at least two pieces: an Operating Systems and Applications companies.

In no way, shape, or form should Microsoft be permitted to invade the educational system and expand their monopoly.
